

Winter Wonderland, the annual dance sponsored by the residents of the Women's Dormitory, was held January 18, at eight o'clock, in the gym.

The Embers of Jackson furnished the music for the dance and refreshments were served during the intermission.

The theme, "Winter Wonderland" was depicted through snowflakes hung from the gym rafters and a mural decorated as a snow scene on the end wall of the dance floor.

Pianist And Flamenco Team Coming To UTMB And MSC

Two Mutual Concert Association programs will be available this week to UTMB students and association members, one on January 24 on the campus and the other January 23 at Murray State College Auditorium.

Students will be admitted free of charge upon presentation of their activity cards.

Robert MacDonald, young American pianist, will be presented in a concert at the UTMB Music-Drama Building, Friday evening, January 24, at 8 p.m. MacDonald has been said by one critic to be a young philosopher of piano and one with a heart. Another has said that he performs with a spirit of youthfulness.

MacDonald, who was born in South Carolina, has played in major concert houses in Europe and the United States. He studied in Vienna's Academy of Music. He has made tours of European countries for the U. S. State Department.

MacDonald received the bachelor of music degree at the University of North Carolina and the master's in piano from Indiana University.

At Murray State College, Murray, Ky., on January 23 at 8 p.m. the association will present the Jose Molina Spanish Dancers.

The group is considered one of the top Flamenco companies in the country. It consists of nine Spanish dancers, singers and musicians and features the beautiful Marie del Rocio, one of the top Flamenco artists. The group will be accompanied by guitar and piano.

The wardrobe used by this group was created in Madrid by some of Spain's top costumiers and is appraised at $80,000.

Campus Leader Election Feb. 4

February 4 is the date set for the election of campus leaders for the University of Tennessee Martin Branch.

At this time students will vote for six men and six women whom they think are worthy of the title "campus leaders."

The All Students Association is still voting on a list of three representatives from each club and organization from which will be selected 18 men and 12 women to place on the ballot for the campus wide election.

Due to a tie in the selection of both men and women this action wasn't completed at the January 14 meeting.

ASA urges all students to go to the polls and vote.

Annual Expected Off Press May 18

The Volunteer, UTMB's annual, is scheduled to come off the press and be available to the student body sometime around the third week in May, according to George Shankle, editor.

The price is now $7, and there will be a limited number of annuals for sale to students who did not place their orders during winter quarter registration.

Progress on The Volunteer is coming along fine, George said. By the end of this month two thirds of the copy and pictures will be in the publishers, Hurley Publishing Company, Camden, Arkansas. The final deadline is April 1.

Fraternities, sororities, and other clubs and organizations have done an excellent job of getting their material in, George said. "I certainly appreciate it; it's a big help not to have to go chasing people around all over the campus."

Plans In Making For Military Ball

This year's Military Ball is again shaping up to be one of the major social events of the season, according to the Department of Military Science.

The main feature is the first appearance of "The Screaming Eagles," dance band from the 101st Airborne Division, Ft. Campbell. Word from "Vandy" has it that they were the outstanding band on campus there last year.

The Grenadiers Club is again sponsoring this event, with Cadet Captain Joe Alphin, commander, as host and honorary Captain Gail Parks as hostess.

One of the features of this annual event is the selection of this year's "Queen." She will be elected from one of the seven sponsors of the Corps of Cadets.

The ball will be held at the Martin Armory, Friday, January 31, from 8 to 12 p.m.

'The Lettermen' To Appear Here Open House Day

The Lettermen, a vocal singing trio, will appear on The University of Tennessee Martin Branch campus, April 9, 1964, David Stroud, president of All Students Association, has announced.

The performance of The Lettermen will climax the day's activities of Open House and will give all UTMB students an opportunity to hear one of the most popular singing groups of this age.

Their recordings have sold in the millions, and their first Capital record, "The Way You Look Tonight," was an immediate hit. It was soon joined on the nation's best-seller charts by their version of "When I Fall In Love."

A program, similar to this, has been in demand by the student body and will be a highlight of spring quarter, according to David Stroud. Ticket sales are scheduled to begin around March 1.

Committees Are Appointed For Annual All-Sing Here

Ten organizations have turned in song selections for All Sing to be held April 3, according to Andy Gardner, chairman.

Various committees have been appointed and work has begun for this third annual All Sing, sponsored by the Liberal Arts Club, Andy said.

Under the theme, "Cavalcade of Music", three fraternities, three sororities, SNEA, Junior Class, Home Economics and the Women's Residence Hall have turned in their songs selections. Although these organizations represent the five divisions competing for the trophies, many more are expected to enter, Andy said.

The songs were selected in accordance with the wishes of each group, excluding songs used in previous years. The songs already entered include such numbers as "Harbor Lights," "Meet Me at Midnight Mary" and "Green Door."

David Sammons has been named assistant All Sing director, and Mary Jane Williams was selected secretary.

The committees for the event are as follows:

Decorations -- Nawasa Jonas, chairman; Linda Chambers, Molly Jenkins, Jenny Ladd, and Bill Bolin.

Finance -- Sam Nailling, chairman; J. T. Patterson and Pat Grey.

Fraternity averages were Alpha Gamma Rho, 2.41; Pi Kappa Alpha, 2.34; and Phi Sigma Kappa, 2.16.

The range of the averages of pledge classes of the various organizations began with ZTA's high of 2.54, which made the pledge and active combination 2.74.

Next came ADPi pledges with 2.41, making their combined average 2.57. Chi Omega pledges were next with 2.18 and their combination was 2.62.

Fraternity pledges were led by ATO and AGR, each with a 2.11. The ATO combined average was 2.51, and AGR was 2.32. Pi Kappa Alpha pledges averaged 1.94 and the fraternity over-all average was 2.23, while Phi Sigma Kappa pledges totaled a 1.61 and brought their combined efforts to 1.90.

University Gets 137 Acres Land

The University of Tennessee Martin Branch has recently leased 137 acres of farm land from Mr. and Mrs. Neil Bowden, according to Gene Stanford, business manager.

The land was leased because of the expanding production in livestock and the feeding program here at Martin, Mr. Stanford said. The university has taken farm land to build new buildings needed for classrooms and dormitories which is another reason for adding farm land.

The University is located where it can expand its entire operations at three general directions if necessary.

Mr. Stanford said that many plans and projects have been brought to realization recently. In the future many additional developments will take place of which UTMB students and faculty will be proud.

Work On Stadium To Get Under Way

Contract negotiations for the U-T Martin Branch football stadium have been completed and the W. T. Cutchin and Associates firm of Dyersburg has been given the go-ahead to begin work.

The completed arrangements call for 5,061 pre-stressed concrete seats, a press box, dressing rooms, and banks of lights on both sides of the field to be located behind the seats, all at a cost of approximately $138,000.

The stadium will be ready for use by late summer and before fall football practice begins, Dr. Paul Meek, vice-president of The University of Tennessee in charge of the Martin Branch, said yesterday.

People Getting Smarter?

Grades are on the upswing at The University of Tennessee Martin Branch.

This is indicated by the increased number on the fall quarter honor roll, the large number of 4.0 average, and by statistics quoted in a story on page one of The Volette.

UTMB's increased grade point average follows a university-wide trend, according to a recent release from the Knoxville campus.

There may be several reasons for the better grades that are being made. One, that UTMB, like many other colleges and universities, is raising its entrance requirements. Another, that special courses are being set up for students who are deficient in certain areas.

Still another may be that college students now have reached a greater maturity than those in the past. They probably have a better understanding of the necessity of a college education, accompanied by a good record, and perhaps they realize more fully what is expected of them. College students definitely are concerned with making good, even though this is not always obvious in every case.

But whatever the reasons for the higher averages it is a record of which students can be proud. And it is a challenge to every UTMB student to set his goals high, working not just for grades but for the knowledge gained.

Freshman Counselor Evaluates First Quarter Accomplishments

BY HENRY ALLISON,
Freshman Counselor

On September 21, 1963, we had in excess of 600 freshman students enrolling for the fall quarter. Now that the fall quarter is history, I think it is profitable for us to pause and evaluate the accomplishments of the first quarter at The University of Tennessee Martin Branch.

We often hear the expression that "The hindsight is better than the foresight," and if we can use a review of the past as a motivation for the improvement of the future, then I think it is worthwhile for us to consider our progress thus far. In talking to some of the freshmen that have experienced some academic difficulty, we hear such expressions as: I simply didn't study enough, or, I just don't know how to study, or, college is much harder than I had anticipated, or, I spent too much time participating in extracurricular activities, or some other similar reason.

I believe when freshmen recognize some of the things that hindered their academic progress, they will have taken a forward step in making the transition from high school to college. Of course, recognizing your difficulty will not accomplish your ultimate objective to excel unless you do something about it. We would like to suggest a few things that should help you improve your academic standing.

First of all, you need a viewpoint. Sometimes we talk about the attitudes you should carry with you to school. We should like to suggest an attitude which boils down to this: While you are in school, try to get the most out of it. Try to look upon school as an agency for developing your own outlook of life and as a means by which you can begin to understand your own better world. You don't have to suffer through school - with the right attitude, you can enjoy it. A constructive attitude is a big step toward becoming a better student.

Second, we should like to suggest that you give some thought to your study environment. There are two kinds of environment - external and internal. In considering the external, you need to be able to study in a quiet room, with adequate light, and using the right kind of chair. In considering the internal environment, if you have any personal problems that worry you, you need to set these aside and concentrate on the immediate problem, that of studying. The ability to concentrate is a matter of mental discipline and often this doesn't come easy. It requires a considerable effort on the individual's part. Don't waste your time studying unless you are getting something out of it. The importance of study environment cannot be over-emphasized. If a lot of your study time has been unproductive, your study environment has probably been at the root of the trouble.

A third point that needs to be considered is the art of taking notes. This is probably one of the outstanding shortcomings of the beginning college student. Some suggestions concerning note taking are: (1) A student needs to be familiar with the lesson so that he will be on familiar ground during the lecture; (2) When he takes notes, he listens; he doesn't just scribble; (3) A good note taker listens for the main idea of the lecture before he starts writing; (4) A good note taker is active in questioning, tries to anticipate what the teacher is going to say, and therefore, is able to concentrate; (5) Your method of taking notes may not be the same as that employed by someone else, but you need to develop a system for taking notes.

Fourth, you need to be concerned with properly budgeting your time. We should like to suggest that you make out a good, realistic schedule, taking everything into account and allowing plenty of time for school and recreation. Post the schedule on your desk or your wall and then stick to it. Special events will come up, and you will break the schedule, but if you will make an extreme effort to stick to the schedule most of the time and get into the habit of day to day studying, you can save yourself a lot of anxiety and many sleepless nights when exams arrive.

We realize that there are other factors to be considered, but we believe that if you will develop a viewpoint, select the best environment possible that is conducive to studying, develop the art of effective note-taking and properly budget your time, that your academic standing at the end of the winter quarter will indicate a considerable improvement.

The members of the staff at UTMB are interested in the progress of each student and many services are provided to assist you in making a success of your college career. Don't hesitate to avail yourself of these services.

A GUIDE FOR THE GUIDERS

One of the most interesting academic theories advanced in many a long year has recently been advanced by that interesting academic theorist, E. Pluribus Ewbank, Ph. D. who holds the chair of Interesting Academic Theories at the St. Louis College of Footwear and Educational Philosophy. Dr. Ewbank said in the last issue of the learned journal, the Mount Rushmore Guide to Scholastic Advancement and Presidents' Heads, that we might be approaching the whole problem of student guidance from the wrong direction.

Dr. Ewbank, a highly respected pedagogue and a lifelong smoker of Marlboro Cigarettes, (I mention Marlboro for two reasons: first, to indicate the scope of Dr. Ewbank's brainpower. Out of all the dozens of brands of cigarettes available today, Dr. Ewbank has had the wit and taste to pick the one with the most flavorful flavor, the most filtracious filter, the most soft soft pack, the most flip top Flip Top box: I refer, of course, to Marlboro. The second reason I mention Marlboro is that I get paid to mention Marlboro in this column, and the laborer, you will agree, is worthy of his hire.)

But I digress. To return to Dr. Ewbank's interesting theory, he contends that most college guidance counselors are inclined to take the easy way out. That is to say, if a student's aptitude tests show a talent for, let us say, math, the student is encouraged to major in math. If his tests show an aptitude for poetry, he is directed toward poetry. And so forth.

She set the entire math department agog

All wrong, says Dr. Ewbank. The great breakthroughs, the startling innovations in, let us say, math, are likely to be made not by mathematicians—whose thinking, after all, is constrained by rigid rules and principles—but by mavericks, by nonconformists, by intuitors who refuse to fall into the rut of reason. For instance, set a poet to studying math. He will bring a fresh, unfettered mind to the subject, just as a mathematician will bring the same kind of approach to poetry.

By way of evidence, Dr. Ewbank cites the case of Cipher Binary, a youth who entered college with brilliant test scores in physics, chemistry, and the calculus. But Dr. Ewbank forced young Cipher to major in poetry.

The results were astonishing. Here, for example, is young Cipher's latest poem, a love lyric of such originality that Lord Byron springs to mind. I quote:

*He was her logarithm,
She was his cosine.
Taking their dog with 'em.
They hastened to go sign
Marriage vows which they joyfully shared,
And wooed and wed and pi r squared.*

Similarly, when a freshman girl named Elizabeth Barrett Sigafoos came to Dr. Ewbank to seek guidance, he ignored the fact that she had won the Pulitzer prize for poetry when she was eight, and insisted she major in mathematics. Again the results were startling. Miss Sigafoos has set the entire math department agog by flatly refusing to believe that six times nine is 54. If Miss Sigafoos is correct, we will have to re-think the entire science of numbers and—who knows?—possibly open up vistas as yet undreamed of in mathematics.

Dr. Ewbank's unorthodox approach to student guidance has so impressed his employers that he was fired last week. He is currently selling beaded moccasins at Mount Rushmore.

Volunteer Cagers Gun For Florence

UTMB will be out to avenge a seven-point defeat handed them last month at Martin by the Lions of Florence State when they make the jaunt to Florence, Alabama, tonight.

It will be the third straight road game for the Volunteers to be followed by another Saturday night to Delta State.

The Vols have won only one game out of five out-of-town clashes. Their only win came against Union in one of the most important conference games of the year. To win tonight the Orange and White will have to thwart the outstanding offense courted this season by the Lions.

Starters will be forwards Larimer and Powers, center Hoffman, and guards Williams and Armstrong.

Saturday night the Volunteers will head for Delta State on their longest basketball trip of the season and for their first meeting with the Statesmen of Cleveland, Miss.

Delta boasts a much larger enrollment than UTMB and, consequently, fields top-rated teams each year. Last year the Vols met them only once and fell 80-70. This season two games will be played with the Mississippians.

Men's Blue Team Paces Intramurals

Blue team is leading the men's intramurals with 105 points, according to unofficial tabulations.

The points accumulated are for volleyball and some of the table tennis games. The other teams and their points are: Yellow, 39; Orange, 34; Brown, 22; Black, 21.

Participation in men's intramurals is at an all-time high, according to Coach J. C. Henson. The new and improved facilities are at least partly responsible for the increased interest.

Gym activity rooms 22 and 23 are available for practice sessions any time there is no P. E. class using them, Mr. Henson said.

The semi-finals and final game of the basketball tournament which is now in progress will be played on the main gym playing floor.

Vols Upset Bulldogs Jan. 14 On Home Floor

UTMB upset the Bulldogs of Union University on their home floor last Tuesday night, January 14, to take their second conference win of the season.

Union cagers make up one of the stronger contenders for the 1964 VSAC crown, and the 65-61 Volunteer victory was marked up as one of the most important victories of the conference season.

Orange, White Green Ahead

At the end of first round play in the women's intramural basketball tournament, Terry Culvahouse's Orange team, Dianne Wyatt's Green team and White team, captained by Betty Blades, emerged as winners.

Blue and Brown teams were scheduled to play at press time.

Thus far 91 women have taken part in this popular winter sport with Black team boasting a high of 20 participants. High scoring forwards at this time are Betty Blades, White team, with 17 points and Orange team's Jo Anne Cobb with 16 points.

Second round play begins today with Yellow vs. Green. Wednesday Orange team meets Black team. Thursday White team will play the loser of the Blue-Brown game. All games are played at 5 P. M. in the old gym.

Other tournaments now in progress are women's shuffleboard and badminton as well as mixed shuffleboard.

Over 170 women signed up to participate in each of the two singles tournaments, and competition should be keen to reach those coveted last brackets. Finalists in last year's shuffleboard tournament were Venda Poole and Becky Maddux. Cile Bramham and Mary Ross concluded play in the badminton tournament in '63.

IFC Basketball Games Get Started Tonight

Interfraternity basketball begins tonight at 6:30 in the old Physical Education building.

Phi Sigma Kappa and Pi Kappa Alpha will play at 6:30. The Alpha Gamma Rho and Alpha Tau Omega game will begin at 8 p.m.

Last Minute Splurge By Rebels Hands Orangemen Defeat

Fans were only sure of one thing last Saturday night when UTMB and Belmont, both tied for top spot in the VSAC with 2-0 records clashed at Nashville, and that was that someone was going to be knocked from the ladder by the outcome.

UTMB caught the whiplash of a quick, last-minute Belmont splurge and fell 71-68 after leading most of the game. Holding a nine-point spread with eight minutes left the Vols lost their lead in four minutes to a strong Rebel full-court press.

With the score standing at 66-44, Dwight Simmons, who paced the Rebels' attack with 25 points, dropped in a field goal to give the hosts a two point lead with less than three minutes left. The Vols' Jerry Lacy matched it with another to tie the score again.

Coming back down the floor

Belmont guard Bill Meisel was fouled and sank one of his free throws to put the VSAC leaders ahead by a point. Failing to score on the trip back down the court, the Vols tried desperately to gain possession of the ball as the seconds kept ticking away. The final blow was dealt when a Belmont cager was fouled. Although he missed his shot, Simmons swooped in to tip in the final two points of the game.

The loss was UTMB's sixth in ten games, while Belmont gained their eighth win in 12 starts. Tuesday night and Saturday night will find road games for the Vols. Florence State and Delta State will host the Orange and White in two non-conference tilts.

Forward Dolph Larimer was again high for the Volunteers pumping in 19 points.
